

A GRAND SLAM FOR SODAVEX!

We are proud to announce that, following the arrival of Yves Dulude, a prominent figure in the legal field, as a shareholder, Sodavex welcomes four talented lawyers who share the values that distinguish us. They join us with the desire to enhance the firm's already well nationally established expertise in the fields of environmental and energy law, real estate, municipal and regulatory law, as well as expropriation and aboriginal law.

NICOLA CORBO, called to the Bar in 2009, joins as a shareholder. His practice focuses on Quebec and Canadian businesses and covers strategic development as well as the litigation and corporate aspects of their operations, making him an important player in assisting with the implementation of concrete solutions for his clients. He joins the founder, Christine Duchaine, with whom he worked closely in the early days of his practice when they were working for a major national firm, and since then in several major cases, notably in real estate, municipal and expropriation matters, for common clients.

ANDRÉA LAFRAMBOISE, called to the Bar in 2010, also joins as a shareholder. She was a partner in a boutique firm, where she acquired considerable expertise in civil, commercial and administrative litigation. She has managed several large-scale cases for a loyal clientele who trust her and whom she advises with great dedication, which is in line with the values of our firm.

ERIK LOWE, called to the Bar in 2013, joins the team to share his expertise in real estate law, class actions and expropriation with the passion and dedication that characterizes him, which will definitely be an asset for our clients.

CLARA GAGNÉ-THIBAUT, called to the Bar in 2020, has worked with Nicola and Andréa for several years. Her experience in real estate law and civil and administrative litigation allows us to better respond to our clients' requests. Her keen sense of client service, especially in assisting and meeting the high standards required by our clientele, is appreciated by all.

This alliance is a natural fit given the complementarity of their practice with the areas of specialization for which we are reknown, as well as the great similarity of our values and our clients. The combination of our strengths will result in a deepening of our skills, but above all, in a substantial increase in our potential to meet the highly specialized needs of a sophisticated clientele and to assist the clients in carrying out innovative projects. This is excellent news for our clients and bodes well for the future and the sustainability of both the team and Sodavex.

Christine Duchaine